ACT III, SCENE 2

Another part of the woods.

[Enter OBERON, King of the Fairles]

OBERON

I wonder if Titania be awaked:

Then, what it was that next came in her eye,

Which she must dote on in extremity.

[Enter PUCK]

Here comes my messenger. How now, mad spirit?

What night-rule now about this haunted grove?

PUCK

My mistress with a monster is in love. Near to her close and consecrated bower, While she was in her dull and sleeping hour, A crew of patches, rude mechanicals, That work for bread upon Athenian stalls,

Were met together to rehearse a play Intended for great Theseus' nuptial day. The shallowest thickskin of that barren sort Who Pyramus presented in their sport,

Forsook his scene and entered in a brake, When I did him at this advantage take: An ass's nole I fixed on his head.

Anon, his Thisby must be answered,

And forth my mimic comes. When they him spy-

As wild geese that the creeping fowler eye, Or russet-pated choughs, many in sort, Rising and cawing at the gun's report,

Sever themselves and madly sweep the sky-

So at his sight away his fellows fly,

And at our stamp here, o'er and o'er one falls;

He 'Murder!' cries, and help from Athens calls.

Their sense thus weak, lost with their fears, thus strong,

Made senseless things begin to do them wrong, For briars and thorns at their apparel snatch,

Some sleeves, some hats; from yielders all things catch. 30

Hed them on in this distracted fear, And left sweet Pyramus translated there;

When in that moment, so it came to pass,

Titania waked, and straightway loved an ass.

ACT III, SCENE 2

In another part of the forest outside of Athens.

[OBERON, King of the Fairles, enters.]

OBERON

I wonder if Titania is awake. Whatever she first sees, she will fall madly in love with. [PUCK arrives.] Here comes my messenger. How are you, spirit? What night fun will take place in the woods?

Titania is in love with a monster. Near her secret quarters, while she was asleep, a bunch of clowns, ignorant laborers that earn their living in Athenian shops, gathered to practice a play to honor Theseus's wedding to Hippolyta. The densest one of the players acts the part of Pyramus. He left the stage and entered a grove, where I found him. I put a donkey's head on his head. Soon, Pyramus will return to say his lines to Thisby. When the workers see Bottom, they will run away like wild geese or redheaded jackdaws flapping away into the sky at the sound of the hunter's gun. And at our tread, one by one, the men will fall. Bottom will cry "Murder!" and yell to Athens for protection. Thus weakened by fear, the players will sink into confusion. Briars and stickers will grab at their sleeves and hats, and will seize the weaklings. I created this terror. I left Pyramus on this spot. In that instant, Titania happened to arise and fall in love with a donkey.

This falls out better than I could devise. But hast thou yet latched the Athenian's eyes With the love juice, as I did bid thee do?	35	OBERON	This is even better than I had hoped. Have you also anointed the eyelids of the Athenian as I commanded?
I took him sleeping—that is finished too— And the Athenian woman by his side, That, when he waked, of force she must be eyed. [Enter DEMETRIUS and HERMIA]	40	PUCK	I found him asleep. I did what you said. The Athenian immediately fell in love with the first woman he saw. [DEMETRIUS and HERMIA enter.]
Stand close; this is the same Athenian.	900	OBERON	Stay here. This is the Athenian.
This is the woman, but not this the man.		PUCK	This is the woman, but not the man I anointed.
O, why rebuke you him that loves you so? Lay breath so bitter on your bitter foe.	West Constitution	DEMETRIUS	How can you reject a man who truly loves you? How can you utter bitter words on him like an enemy.
Now I but chide, but I should use thee worse, For thou, I fear, hast given me cause to curse. If thou hast slain Lysander in his sleep, Being o'er shoes in blood, plunge in the deep, And kill me too. The sun was not so true unto the day As he to me: would he have stol'n away From sleeping Hermia? I'll believe as soon This whole earth may be bored, and that the moon May through the centre creep and so displease Her brother's noontide with th' Antipodes. It cannot be but thou hast murdered him. So should a murderer look: so dead, so grim.	50	HERMIA	I am only scolding, but I could do something worse. You give me good reason to swear. If you murdered Lysander in his sleep, you are already soaked in blood, so kill me too. He is more faithful to me than the sun is to daylight. Would Lysander have crept away from me? I would sooner believe that the moon could sneak through a hole in the earth and interrupt noon on the opposite side of the world. I believe you murdered him. A killer would look as emotionless and evil as you.
So should the murdered look, and so should I, Pierced through the heart with your stern cruelty; Yet you, the murderer, look as bright, as clear, As yonder Venus in her glimmering sphere.	60	DEMETRIUS	I look just like a killer because you wound my heart. But you still look as gorgeous as Venus in the sky.
What's this to my Lysander? Where is he? Ah, good Demetrius, wilt thou give him me?		HERMIA	What does this have to do with Lysander? Where is he? Please, Demetrius, show me where he is.
I had rather give his carcass to my hounds.		DEMETRIUS	I would rather feed his carcass to my dogs.
Out, dog! Out, cur! Thou driv'st me past the bounds Of maiden's patience. Hast thou slain him, then? Henceforth be never numbered among men! Oh. Once tell true; tell true, even for my sake: Durst thou have looked upon him being awake? And hast thou killed him sleeping? O brave touch! Could not a worm, an adder, do so much? An adder did it; for with doubler tongue Than thine, thou serpent, never adder stung.	65 70	HERMIA	Away with you, stray hound! You force me beyond a woman's patience. Did you kill him? May you never be called a man! Tell me the truth, for my sake. Did you see him after he awoke? Did you kill him while he slept? Oh, that was brave of you! Wouldn't a snake or serpent do the same? A snake did do it. No serpent could have a more deceptive tongue than yours.

DEMETRIUS	You spend your passion on a misprised mood: I am not guilty of Lysander's blood, Nor is he dead, for aught that I can tell.	75	DEMETRIUS	You waste your anger on a faulty impression. I didn't kill Lysander. For all I know, he is still alive.
HERMIA	I pray thee, tell me, then, that he is well.	essor of Constituent	HERMIA	Oh please tell me that he is not hurt.
DEMETRIUS	And if I could, what should I get therefore?	usedan mores	DEMETRIUS	What would you give me if I could reassure you?
HERMIA	A privilege never to see me more. And from thy hated presence part I so. See me no more, whether he be dead or no. [Exit]	SO	HERMIA	I would reward you by going away. I would never see you again. Whatever the outcome, I will leave your sight. [She departs.]
DEMETRIUS	There is no following her in this fierce vein; Here, therefore, for a while I will remain. So sorrow's heaviness doth heavier grow For debt that bankrupt sleep doth sorrow owe; Which now in some slight measure it will pay, If for his tender here I make some stay. [Lies down]	85	DEMETRIUS	There is no reason to follow her when she is so mad. I will stay here for a while. My sadness will increase until I get some sleep. I will feel better if I stay here and rest. [DEMETRIUS lies down.]
OBERON	What hast thou done? Thou hast mistaken quite, And laid the love-juice on some true-love's sight: Of thy misprision must perforce ensue Some true love turned, and not a false turned true.	90	OBERON	Puck, what have you done? You put the magic pansy juice on the wrong person. Because of your error, you ruined true love and produced a false affection.
PUCK	Then fate o'er-rules, that, one man holding troth, A million fail, confounding oath on oath.	and the second s	PUCK	Fate rules everything. Only one man in a million keeps his promise to a lover.
OBERON	About the wood go, swifter than the wind, And Helena of Athens look thou find. All fancy-sick she is, and pale of cheer, With sighs of love, that costs the fresh blood dear. By some illusion see thou bring her here; I'll charm his eyes against she do appear.	95	OBERON	Hurry like the wind through the woods. Locate Helena of Athens. She is lovesick and pale. Her loving sighs steal away her color. Use magic to bring her here. I will put a spell on Demetrius until she returns.
PUCK	I go, I go; look how I go, Swifter than arrow from the Tartar's bow! [Exit]	100	РИСК	I fly away swifter than a Turk's arrow! [PUCK departs.]

OBERON	Flower of this purple dye, Hit with Cupid's archery, Sink in apple of his eye! [He drops the juice on DEMETRIUS' eyelids] When his love he doth espy, Let her shine as gloriously As the Venus of the sky. When thou wak'st, if she be by, Beg of her for remedy. [Enter PUCK]	105	OBERON	Purple pansy that Cupid struck with an arrow, drop juice on Demetrius's eyelid! [He drips the pansy juice on DEMETRIUS's eyelids.] When he sees his love, let her look like Venus in the sky. When you awaken, Demetrius, if she is near, beg her pardon. [PUCK returns.]
PUCK	Captain of our fairy band, Helena is here at hand, And the youth mistook by me, Pleading for a lover's fee. Shall we their fond pageant see? Lord, what fools these mortals be!	110	PUCK	Oberon, captain of the fairies, Helena is coming.  Demetrius, the man I misidentified, begs once more for her love. Shall we watch them reunite? Lord, humans are silly!
OBERON	Stand aside. The noise they make Will cause Demetrius to awake.		OBERON	Stand over there. Hermia will awaken Demetrius.
PUCK	Then will two at once woo one. That must needs be sport alone; And those things do best please me That befall prepost'rously. [Enter LYSANDER and HELENA]	120	PUCK	They will soon be a couple again. This should be fun. I enjoy events caused by confusion. [LYSANDER and HELENA enter.]
LYSANDER	Why should you think that I should woo in scorn? Scorn and derision never come in tears. Look when I vow, I weep; and vows so born, In their nativity all truth appears. How can these things in me seem scorn to you, Bearing the badge of faith to prove them true?	125	LYSANDER	Why do you think I make fun of you? I would weep while I mock you. See, I weep when I pledge my love. Promises spoken with tears are true. Why do my words seem deceptive when they come with tears?
HELENA	You do advance your cunning more and more. When truth kills truth, O devilish-holy fray! These vows are Hermia's. Will you give her o'er? Weigh oath with oath, and you will nothing weigh: Your vows to her and me, put in two scales, Will even weigh, and both as light as tales.	130	HELENA	You become sneakier. When you court me like you courted Hermia, you commit a devilish sin! You said these words to Hermia. Are you giving her up? Your two vows—to me and to her—are worthless. Place your pledges on a scale. They weigh the same as lies.
LYSANDER	I had no judgment when to her I swore.		LYSANDER	I was wrong when I courted her.
HELENA	Nor none, in my mind, now you give her o'er.	135	HELENA	You are wrong to give her up.
LYSANDER	Demetrius loves her, and he loves not you.		LYSANDER	Demetrius loves Hermia. He doesn't love you.

DEMETRIUS	[Waking] O Helen, goddess, nymph, perfect, divine! To what, my love, shall I compare thine eyne? Crystal is muddy. O, how ripe in show Thy lips, those kissing cherries, tempting grow! That pure congealed white, high Taurus' snow, Fanned with the eastern wind, turns to a crow When thou hold'st up thy hand. O, let me kiss This princess of pure white, this seal of bliss!	140	DEMETRIUS	[DEMETRIUS awakens.] Oh Helena, goddess, elf, perfect and sacred woman! What compares to your eyes? Crystal looks like mud. Your lips tempt me like ripe cherries. The windblown snow of the Turkish mountains looks black when placed alongside your hand. Let me kiss this pure princess, my joy!
HELENA	O spite! O hell! I see you all are bent To set against me for your merriment. If you were civil, and knew courtesy, You would not do me thus much injury. Can you not hate me, as I know you do, But you must join in souls to mock me too? If you were men, as men you are in show, You would not use a gentle lady so, To yow, and swear, and superpraise my parts, When I am sure you hate me with your hearts.	145 150	HELENA	Oh meanness! Oh hell! You are all plotting to make a joke of me. If you had manners, you wouldn't mistreat me this way. Can't you just hate me without plotting to laugh at me too? If you were gentlemen, as you appear to be, you wouldn't mistreat a lady. You court and pledge and overpraise me when I know you despise me. Both of you love Hermia. You both ridicule me. This is no gentlemanly prank, to make a girl cry. No nobleman would insult a girl and try her patience for fun.
	You both are rivals, and love Hermia; And now both rivals, to mock Helena. A trim exploit, a manly enterprise, To conjure tears up in a poor maid's eyes With your derision! None of noble sort Would so offend a virgin, and extort A poor soul's patience, all to make you sport.	155
LYSANDER	You are unkind, Demetrius. Be not so. For you love Hermia: this you know I know. And here, with all good will, with all my heart, In Hermia's love I yield you up my part; And yours of Helena to me bequeath, Whom I do love and will do till my death.	165	LYSANDER	Don't be mean, Demetrius. I know you love Hermia. I heartily give up Hermia to you. Give me Helena, whom I will love until I die.
HELENA	Never did mockers waste more idle breath.		HELENA	Never have tricksters wasted more words.
DEMETRIUS	Lysander, keep thy Hermia; I will none. If e'er I loved her, all that love is gone. My heart to her but as guest-wise sojourned; And now to Helen is it home returned, There to remain.	170	DEMETRIUS	Lysander, you keep Hermia. I don't want her. Even if I did love her, that love has ended. My affection was only temporary. I have returned to Helena and will never part from her.
LYSANDER	Helen, it is not so.		LYSANDER	Helena, say it isn't so.
DEMETRIUS	Disparage not the faith thou dost not know, Lest, to thy peril, thou aby it dear. Look where thy love comes: yonder is thy dear. [Enter HERMIA]	175	DEMETRIUS	Don't ridicule a loyalty you know nothing about. You may pay a terrible price. Look, your girlfriend is coming. There she is. [HERMIA enters.]

Dark night, that from the eye his function takes, HERMIA The ear more quick of apprehension makes: Wherein it doth impair the seeing sense, It pays the hearing double recompense: 180 Thou art not by mine eye, Lysander, found; Mine ear, I thank it, brought me to thy sound. But why unkindly didst thou leave me so? Why should he stay whom love doth press to go? LYSANDER HERMIA What love could press Lysander from my side? 185 LYSANDER Lysander's love, that would not let him bide: Fair Helena, who more engilds the night Than all yon fiery oes and eyes of light. Why seek'st thou me? Could not this make thee know The hate I bare thee made me leave thee so? 190 You speak not as you think; it cannot be. HERMIA Lo. she is one of this confederacy! HELENA Now I perceive they have conjoined all three To fashion this false sport in spite of me. Injurious Hermia! Most ungrateful maid, 195 Have you conspired, have you with these contrived, To bait me with this foul derision? Is all the counsel that we two have shared, The sisters' yows, the hours that we have spent, When we have chid the hasty-footed time 200 For parting us,—O, is all forgot? All schooldays' friendship, childhood innocence? We, Hermia, like two artificial gods, Have with our needles created both one flower, Both on one sampler, sitting on one cushion, 205 Both warbling of one song, both in one key; As if our hands, our sides, voices, and minds Had been incorporate. So we grew together, Like to a double cherry, seeming parted; But yet an union in partition, 210 Two lovely berries moulded on one stem; So, with two seeming bodies, but one heart; Two of the first, like coats in heraldry, Due but to one, and crowned with one crest. And will you rent our ancient love asunder, 215 To join with men in scorning your poor friend? It is not friendly, 'tis not maidenly: Our sex, as well as I, may chide you for it,

90 A Midsummer Night's Dream

I hear better in the dark than I see. Although I can't see, I hear Lysander twice as well. Although I can't see Lysander, I hear you. Why did you abandon me?

LYSANDER Why should I stay with you when I love someone else?

HERMIA What affection takes you away from me?

LYSANDER My love for someone else would not let me stay. Helena shines brighter in the night than stars. Why do you pursue me? Don't you realize that I hate you?

HERMIA

HERMIA

You don't mean it. It can't he

HELENA

Aha, Hermia is part of this mockery! All three join in making fun of me. Wicked Hermia! Disloyal girl, have you plotted with them to torment me for fun? Have you forgotten how we shared secrets like sisters, how we regretted having to end our time together? Have you forgotten our childhood friendship, our girlish ways? We sat on one pillow and embroidered a flower on our needlework while singing the same song. We worked as though our hands, bodies, voices, and thoughts were one person. We grew together like a double cherry. We were like two cherries on one stem. We were two bodies with one heart. Like coats of arms, which crown a couple as one family. Will you destroy our friendship by joining Lysander and Demetrius in jeering at me? Your behavior is cruel, unladylike. All women will scold you for the cruelty I suffer.

Though I alone do feel the injury.

HERMIA	I am amazed at your passionate words: I scorn you not; it seems that you scorn me.	220	HERMIA	I am bewildered by your charge. I am not laughing at you. You are mocking me.
HELENA	Have you not set Lysander, as in scorn, To follow me, and praise my eyes and face? And made your other love, Demetrius, Who even but now did spurn me with his foot, To call me goddess, nymph, divine, and rare, Precious, celestial? Wherefore speaks he this To her he hates? And wherefore doth Lysander Deny your love, so rich within his soul, And tender me, forsooth, affection, But by your setting on, by your consent? What though I be not so in grace as you, So hung upon with love, so fortunate, But miserable most, to love unloved: This you should pity rather than despise.	225	HELENA	Didn't you send Lysander to pursue and court me? to compliment my eyes and face? Didn't you send Demetrius, who once abandoned me, to call me goddess, elf, perfect and precious, heavenly woman? Why would he say that to someone he hates? Why would Lysander abandon you, whom he cherished in his soul? Why would he offer me his love unless you told him to do it? Even though I am not so pretty, beloved, and lucky, why should I be made miserable? You should feel sorry for me rather than despise me.
HERMIA	I understand not what you mean by this.		HERMIA	I don't understand any of this.
HELENA	Ay, do! Persever, counterfeit sad looks, Make mouths upon me when I turn my back, Wink each at other; hold the sweet jest up. This sport, well carried, shall be chronicled. If you have any pity, grace, or manners, You would not make me such an argument. But fare ye well: 'tis partly my own fault; Which death, or absence, soon shall remedy.	240	HELENA	Yes, you do. Go on, pretend to be sorry for me. Smirk at me behind my back. Wink at each other and enjoy the joke. This game, so well played, will make history. If you have any sympathy, generosity, or courtesy, you would stop teasing me. Goodbye. It is partly my fault. I will end this game by dying or leaving you.
LYSANDER	Stay, gentle Helena; hear my excuse; My love, my life, my soul, fair Helena!	245	LYSANDER	Don't go, Helena. Hear my reason. You are my love, my life, my spirit, beautiful Helena!
HELENA	O excellent!		HELENA	Not again!
HERMIA	[To LYSANDER] Sweet, do not scorn her so.		HERMIA	[HERMIA to LYSANDER] Sweetheart, don't ridicule Helena.
DEMETRIUS LYSANDER	[To LYSANDER] If she cannot entreat, I can compel.  Thou canst compel no more than she entreat;		DEMETRIUS	[DEMETRIUS to LYSANDER] If Hermia can't entice you to stop, I'll make you stop hounding Helena.
	Thy threats have no more strength than her weak prayers. Helen, I love thee; by my life I do. I swear by that which I will lose for thee To prove him false that says I love thee not.	250	LYSANDER	You can't force me any more than she can beg me to stop. Your threats are no stronger than her pleas. I love you, Helena. I swear on my life. I swear by the loss of you to anybody who proves me a liar.
DEMETRIUS	[To HELENA] I say I love thee more than he can do.		DEMETRIUS	[DEMETRIUS to HELENA] I love you more than Lysander
LYSANDER	If thou say so, withdraw, and prove it too.	255		does.
			LYSANDER	If you think that, step aside and prove it.

DEMETRIUS	Quick, come-
HERMIA	Lysander, whereto tends all this?
LYSANDER	Away, you Ethiope!
DEMETRIUS	No, no, sir, Seem to break loose; take on as you would follow, But yet come not. You are a tame man, go.
LYSANDER	Hang off, thou cat, thou burr! Vile thing, let loose, Or I will shake thee from me like a serpent.	260
HERMIA	Why are you grown so rude? What change is this, Sweet love?
LYSANDER	Thy love! Out, tawny Tartar, out! Out, loathed medicine! O hated potion, hence!
HERMIA	Do you not jest?
HELENA	Yes, sooth; and so do you.	265
LYSANDER	Demetrius, I will keep my word with thee.
DEMETRIUS	I would I had your bond; for I perceive A weak bond holds you; I'll not trust your word.
LYSANDER	What! Should I hurt her, strike her, kill her dead? Although I hate her, I'll not harm her so.	270
HERMIA	What! Can you do me greater harm than hate? Hate me? Wherefore? O me! What news, my love? Am not I Hermia? Are not you Lysander? I am as fair now as I was erewhile. Since night you loved me; yet since night you left me: Why then, you left me—O, the gods forbid!— In earnest, shall I say?	275
LYSANDER	Ay, by my life; And never did desire to see thee more. Therefore be out of hope, of question, doubt, Be certain, nothing truer; 'tis no jest That I do hate thee and love Helena.	280
HERMIA	[To HELENA] O me! You juggler! You cankerblossom! You thief of love! What, have you come by night, And stol'n my love's heart from him?

DEMETRIUS	Come fight me now.
HERMIA	Lysander, what will a fight prove?
LYSANDER	Away, you African woman!
DEMETRIUS	No, Lysander, you pretend to part with Hermia. You pretend you want a fight, but you stay here. You are a coward. Off with you.
LYSANDER	Let go of me, you cat, you sticker! Let me go or I will yank you free like a snake.
HERMIA	Why have you changed? Sweetheart, what makes you so rude?
LYSANDER	Your clinging to me! Go away, dark Turk, go! Away, bit- ter taste! Oh, hateful drink, go away!
HERMIA	Are you teasing me?
HELENA	Yes, he is, and you are teasing me.
LYSANDER	Demetrius, I will keep my promise to fight you.
DEMETRIUS	I wish I had your promise in writing. You pledge a weak vow. I can't trust your word.
LYSANDER	Should I harm Hermia, hit her, kill her to prove myself honest? Although I hate her, I won't harm her just to prove my point.
HERMIA	What worse harm can you do to me than to hate me? Why do you hate me? Oh, no! What has changed, my love? Aren't I Hermia? Are you still Lysander? I look the same as I did yesterday. You loved me last night. You left me during the night. Why, god forbid, did you reject me?
LYSANDER	I vow on my life that I abandoned you. I don't ever want to see you again. So, accept my desertion as unquestion- able, certain, sure. It is no joke that I hate you and love Helena.
HERMIA	[HERMIA to HELENA] Oh, you fraud! You cankerworm! You man-stealer! Why did you come in the night and steal away Lysander's heart?

HELENA	Fine, i' faith! Have you no modesty, no maiden shame, No touch of bashfulness? What, will you tear Impatient answers from my gentle tongue? Fie, fie! you counterfeit, you puppet, you!	285	HELENA	Stop! Have you no modesty, no female pride, no restraint? Do you want to yank retorts from my mouth? Shame on you, you two-faced dolly!
HERMIA	'Puppet'? Why so? Ay, that way goes the game.  Now I perceive that she hath made compare Between our statures; she hath urged her height; And with her personage, her tall personage, Her height, forsooth, she hath prevailed with him. And are you grown so high in his esteem Because I am so dwarfish and so low? How low am I, thou painted maypole? Speak! How low am I? I am not yet so low But that my nails can reach unto thine eyes.	290 295	HERMIA	Dolly? Why do you call me that? Oh, so you want to call names! You ridicule me for being short? You boast of being taller? You won Lysander because you are taller than I. Have you grown in his admiration because I am lowly and shrunken? How low do you think I am, you painted flagpole? Tell me! How short am I by comparison? I am not too short to reach up and scratch your eyes out.
HELENA	I pray you, though you mock me, gentlemen, Let her not hurt me. I was never curst; I have no gift at all in shrewishness. I am a right maid for my cowardice; Let her not strike me. You perhaps may think, Because she is something lower than myself, That I can match her.	300	HELENA	Even though you men ridicule me, don't let Hermia hurt me. I am not scrappy. I am not good at arguing. Like a proper girl, I avoid fights. Don't let her hit me. You may think that, because she is shorter, I would win the fight.
HERMIA	Lower? Hark, again.	305	HERMIA	Shorter? Again she makes fun of me.
HELENA	Good Hermia, do not be so bitter with me. I evermore did love you, Hermia, ' Did ever keep your counsels, never wronged you; Save that in love unto Demetrius I told him of your stealth unto this wood. He followed you; for love I followed him; But he hath chid me hence, and threatened me To strike me, spurn me, nay, to kill me too. And now, so you will let me quiet go, To Athens will I bear my folly back, And follow you no farther. Let me go. You see how simple and how fond I am.	310 315	HELENA	Hermia, don't be so bitter toward me. I always loved you, Hermia. I always kept your secrets and never harmed you. Except, I told Demetrius that you were eloping to the woods with Lysander. He followed you. Because I love him, I followed Demetrius. But he has scolded me, threatened to hit me, to reject me, even to kill me. Let me go quietly. I will return to Athens and follow you no more. Let me leave. You see how simple-minded and silly I am.
HERMIA	Why, get you gone! Who is't that hinders you?		HERMIA	Then go! What stops you?
HELENA	A foolish heart that I leave here behind.		HELENA	A foolish heart that I leave here.
HERMIA	What! with Lysander?		HERMIA	Do you leave it with Lysander?
HELENA	With Demetrius.	320	HELENA	I leave it with Demetrius.

DEMETRIUS  Be not afraid; she shall not harm thee, Helena.  DEMETRIUS  No, sir, she shall not, though you take her part.  O, when she's angry, she is keen and shrewd: She was a vixen when she went to school; And, though she be but little, she is fierce.  HERMIA  'Little' again! Nothing but 'low' and 'little'! Why will you suffer her to flout me thus? Let me come to her.  LYSANDER  Get you gone, you dwarf, You minimus of hind'ring knot-grass made, You bead, you acorn.  DEMETRIUS  You are too officious In her behalf that scorns your services. Let her alone: speak not of Helena, Take not her part; for if thou dost intend Never so little show of love to her, Thou shalt aby it.  LYSANDER  Now she holds me not; Now follow, if thou dar'st, to try whose right, Of thine or mine, is most in Helena.  DEMETRIUS  Follow? Nay, I'll go with thee, cheek by jowl. [Exeunt LYSANDER and DEMETRIUS]  HERMIA  You, mistress, all this coil is 'long of you: Nay, go not back.  HELENA  I will not trust you, I; Nor longer stay in your curst company. Your hands than mine are quicker for a fray; My legs are longer though, to run away. [Exit] [OBERON and PUCK come forward]  OBERON  This is thy negligence: still thou mistak'st, Or else committ'st thy knaveries willfully.

	The training work that it you, Therena.
DEMETRIUS	No, she won't, even though Lysander defends her.
HELENA	When Hermia's mad, she is sharp and shrewd. She was a schemer when she was in school. She may be short, but she's vicious.
HERMIA	You call me short! You keep calling me low and short! Why do you men let her insult me like this? Let me fight her.
LYSANDER	Go away, shortie. You tiny grass-eater, you bead, you acorn.
DEMETRIUS	You butt in and take the part of a woman who scorns you. Leave Hermia alone. Don't mention Helena's name. Don't defend her. If you don't love Hermia, you will pay for your intrusion.
LYSANDER	Hermia has no hold on me. Come fight me, if you dare, to see who deserves Helena.
DEMETRIUS	Follow you? No, I will accompany you, side by side. [LYSANDER and DEMETRIUS depart.]
HERMIA	All this arguing is your fault, Helena. Don't sneak away now.
HELENA	I don't trust you. I won't stay with you. You are more eager to fight than I am. My legs are longer than yours for running. [HELENA departs.]
HERMIA	I am stunned. I don't know what to say. [HERMIA departs.] [OBERON and PUCK enter.]
OBERON	Your carelessness caused this. You are always making errors, or else creating mischief.

Don't worry. Hermia won't harm you, Helena.
